DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Welcome to Fort Gibson Tiger Theatre's 2024 Fall Musical!

This year, we are proud to bring the classic Oklahoma! back to our stage for the first time in 17 years. As proud Oklahomans and members of this community ourselves, we could think of no better show with which to wrap up our town's bicentennial celebration than with the historical show that gave us our state song!

Oklahoma! was adapted from the 1931 play Green Grow the Lilacs, which was written by Oklahoman Lynn Riggs, and was the first musical collaboration between the great Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein. That fact alone qualifies Oklahoma! as an historical treasure, but the importance of this show to the history of musical theatre does not end there. Oklahoma! significantly changed musical theater by being the first to fully integrate music, lyrics, dance, and plot into a cohesive narrative. Unlike earlier musicals where songs often interrupted a thin plotline, "Oklahoma!" used music to advance the narrative and to reveal complex character motivations, making the songs and the dance numbers integral to the story. Broadway audiences and theatre critics, who were accustomed to the standard musical formula of the day, were surprised by Oklahoma! It broke the rules and invented a new formula, making it the Hamilton of its day.

Oklahoma! is set in the early 1900s just before Oklahoma was named the 46th State of the Union. For the most part, the plot centers around one day, but in that single day we see the hopes, dreams, and struggles of these iconic characters beautifully revealed. With its mix of humour, optimism, simplicity, open-heartedness, and toe-tapping music, Oklahoma! will have you laughing, crying, and fighting off the urge to sing along, but mostly, we hope our production makes you proud to be part of musical theatre history and of this great state. We believe our cast will "knock your boots off" with their unbelievable talent and infectious energy. We could not be prouder of the work they have done and of the community they have created over the last four months.

Show Synopsis

Act I

The story of Oklahoma! begins just after the turn of the century on a radiant summer morning. As Aunt Eller sits on her porch churning butter and looking over her farmstead, Curly, a good-looking but "smart allecky" ranch hand, shows up to call on Eller's niece, Laurey, and though the two are equally smitten with one another, they're both too proud and stubborn to admit it. When Curly offers to take Laurey to the box social that evening in a "surrey with fringe on top," Laurey plays hard-to-get, then becomes enraged after Curly tells her he made up the fancy rig. Jud Fry, Aunt Eller's sullen hired hand, enters and announces that Laurey has accepted his invitation to go to the box social with him. Angered and confused by the news, Curly tells Aunt Eller he will pick her in the "made up" surrey since it is, in fact, real. After Curly leaves, Laurey confesses to Aunt Eller that she is afraid of Jud and only agreed to go with him because she was mad at Curly.

As it turns out, Laurey's not the only girl in the territory who's caught between two fellows. Her friend Ado Annie also finds herself romantically pulled between two men - her beau Will Parker, who just returned from a Kansas City rodeo where he won $50, (the exact bride price Ado Annie's father told Will he would need to claim his daughter) and Ali Hakim, the womanizing, Persian peddler who pitched more woo than wares to the gullible Ado Annie while Will was out of town. Ado Annie's all set to marry Will until her father, Andrew Carnes, finds out Will no longer has the cash because he naively spent the $50 on wedding gifts for his bride. That's when the rifle-toting Carnes reneges on his promise to give Ado Annie to Will and, after hearing how the peddler man and his daughter have been carrying on "longside a haystack in the moonlight," uses his trusty shotgun to convince Ali Hakim he must now marry Ado Annie instead.

Confused by Laurey's decision to attend the party with Jud, Curly makes a trip to the smokehouse, where he tries to convince Jud how popular he would be if only he were dead. Curly then paints a beautiful picture for Jud of his funeral, complete with "weepin' and wailin'" women. Jud tells Curly a story he claims to have heard about a farm hand who killed a whole family because the farmer's daughter rejected him. Concerned by the tale, Curly confronts Jud about his own dark thoughts., and the two end up arguing over Laurey. Curly leaves the smokehouse, and a brooding Jud is left alone with his fantasies about Laurey and his hostility toward Curly.

Though her friends ridicule her for doing so, Laurey buys a potion called "The Elixir of Egypt" from Ali Hakim, who claims the mixture will help her decide which of her dreams to follow. Instead, the elixir acts as a sleeping potion, and Laurey has a nightmare that Jud kills Curly before abducting her.

Act II

At the box social, tensions rise as Jud and Curly bid against each other for Laurey's hamper. Curly sells his saddle, his horse and even his gun in order to raise enough cash to buy the hamper, which infuriates Jud. Feeling rejected by Laurey, Jud threatens her, and Laurey fires him. When Curly shows up, a frightened Laurey clings to him for protection, and the couple finally confess their love for each other. Still trying to maneuver his way out of marrying Ado Annie, Ali Hakim devises a plan to help Will earn back his $50 by offering to buy the gifts he purchased for Ado Annie in Kansas City. With cash in hand, and a few misunderstandings he intends to clear up on his mind, Will approaches Ado Annie again and asks her to set the date for their wedding.

Three weeks later, the whole community comes together to celebrate the marriage of Laurey and Curly! Will and Ado seem destined for a happily-ever-after, as well, and even Gertie Cummings, the flirty girl with an irritating laugh who tried unsuccessfully to woo Curly, has recently had a wedding of her own; although, her choice of husbands will leave the whole town dumbfounded! However, the joyful festivities soon turn dark when Jud Fry stumbles in uninvited. Curly and the drunken Jud fight, but when Jud pulls a knife on Curly, Jud falls on it and dies. Not wanting to see Curly spend his wedding night in jail, Aunt Eller convinces Andrew Carnes to hold a quick trial, and Curly is acquitted. As their friends and loved ones cheer them on, Curly and Laurey set off for their new life together in the territory that will soon become the brand-new State of OKLAHOMA!.
